Per Capita Income and Population by County

According to the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis the 2019 Tennessee per capita personal income was $48,684, up 3.1 percent from the previous year. The United States per capita personal income was $56,490, up 3.5 percent from 2018.

Per capita personal income is defined as the annual total personal income of residents divided by the residential population as of July 1. Personal income is derived by summing the net earnings, rental income, personal dividend/interest income, and transfer payments by place of residence. Personal income excludes federal income tax deductions and other personal taxes and is reported in current dollars. In simpler terms, it is the total income on the front page of your 1040 tax form. This data can be influenced by large growth (or decline) in population, natural disasters (i.e., flooding or hurricanes), commuting populations (those that primarily work in other counties), and state and local taxes.

Per Capita Income

In 2019, the Tennessee counties with the highest per capita personal income were Williamson County ($95,053), Davidson County ($71,252), Fayette County ($56,361), Hamilton County ($53,360), Knox County ($51,758), Wilson County ($50,875), Shelby County ($50,744), Sumner County ($50,213), and Loudon County ($50,154). These nine counties are the only ones with per capita income greater than the state average. Four of these counties are in the Nashville MSA. In 2019, only Williamson County and Davidson Counties had per capita income greater than the United States average. In 2010, the counties with the highest per capita income were (in order): Williamson, Davidson, Fayette, Shelby, Hamilton, Montgomery, Knox, and Trousdale.

The counties with the lowest per capita income were Lake County ($25,772), Bledsoe County ($27,113), Hancock County ($28,083), Wayne County ($28,922), Morgan County ($30,962), Hardeman

County ($30,977), Scott County ($31,046), Clay County ($31,056), and Van Buren County ($31,628). In 2010, the ranking (from the bottom) was Lake County, Bledsoe County, Hancock County, Lauderdale County, Hickman County, Union County, Wayne County, and Lewis County.

Population Estimates

In 2019, Tennessee had a population of 6,829,174, up 473,863 from the 2010 Census. This is a growth rate of 7.5 percent since 2010.

The counties with the greatest population are: Shelby County (937,166), Davidson County (694,144), Knox County (470,313), Hamilton County (367,804), Rutherford County (332,285), Williamson County (238,412), Montgomery County (208,993), and Sumner County (191,283). From 2018 to 2019, there were increases in Rutherford County (7,638), Williamson County (6,434), and Knox County (4,055). These three counties increased 18,127 or 31.5 percent of the entire state's population increase. The counties with the least population are: Pickett County (5,048), Van Buren County (5,872), Moore County (6,488), Hancock County (6,620), Lake County (7,016), Clay County (7,615), Perry County (8,076), and Houston County (8,201).

There were 21 counties that had a population decline over the 2018 to 2019 time period. The largest decreases were in Lake County (down 391), Lauderdale County (down 364), Hardeman County (down 226), Carroll County (down 208), and Obion County (down 205). The largest one-year percent-population growth was in Williamson County (up 2.8 percent) followed by Wilson County (up 2.6 percent), Rutherford County (up 2.4 percent), Trousdale County (up 2.3 percent), and Maury County (up 2.2 percent).

There were increases in leisure & hospitality (up 10,700 jobs), which include increases of 5,500 jobs in food services & drinking places; professional & business services (up 3,400 jobs), which includes increases of 2,300 jobs in administrative/support/waste management; durable goods manufacturing (up 3,100 jobs).

These increases were partially offset by decreases in government (down 9,300 jobs), which includes decreases of 4,800 jobs in state government educational services; private educational services (down 4,700 jobs).

Tennessee's seasonally adjusted estimated unemployment rate for June 2021 was 4.9 percent, slightly down from the revised May 2021 rate of 5.0 percent. The United States unemployment rate for June 2021 was 5.9 percent, up slightly from the revised May 2021 rate of 5.8 percent. In June 2020, the U.S. seasonally adjusted rate was 11.1 percent while the state rate was 9.3 percent.

The not seasonally adjusted unemployment rate increased in all 95 counties, across the state. Williamson County had the lowest rate at 3.4 percent, up from the revised May rate of 2.7 percent. The highest rate was Perry County at 13.0 percent, up from the revised unemployment rate of 7.1 percent in May.

The data from all the nonfarm employment estimates tables include all full- and part-time nonfarm wage and salary employees who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period that includes the 12th of the month. This is a count of jobs by place of work. Agricultural workers, proprietors, self-employed persons, workers in private households, and unpaid family workers are excluded. These numbers may not add due to rounding. Data are based on the 2020 benchmark.
